

Safari Packing Checklist

WHAT GOES IN THE BAGS

- 2 pairs safari pants in tan or olive
- 1 pair of jeans or nice pants for evenings
- One dress for women
- 1 pair of shorts
- 3 tees in neutral colors
- 2 flowy tops for the girls
- 2 short-sleeve shirts for the boys
- 2 long-sleeve shirts in safari-style and colors preferably cotton that also works as a layer over the tees
- One fleece, sweater or sweatshirt depending on your style. I prefer cashmere sweaters since they are thin yet keep you warm
- One lightweight packable jacket
- Walking shoes or boots
- Tennis shoes (optional, if you plan to workout)
- 2 pairs of PJs
- 5 to 6 pairs underwear
- 5 pairs of socks
- Hat
- 2 scarfs
- Sunglasses
- Swimsuit
- Flip-flops

MEDICINE

- Yellow Fever vaccination cards
- Band-Aids
- Neosporin
- Sunscreen, I like the Neutrogena face and body stick so you don't have to worry about liquid limits

- Bug spray or Ben's Tick and Insect repellent wipes (These were more effective with the bugs)
- Lip balm
- Itch relief
- Anti-diarrhea pills for adults and liquid for kids
- Anti-malaria pills, start taking these before the trip (You will need a prescription from your Doctor)
- Children's pain medication(s)
- Allergy relief medications
- Any other prescription medications

OTHER ITEMS

- Camera bodies and required lenses
- Extra batteries and memory cards for the camera
- Phones and chargers
- Universal travel adapter or a British adapter
- Portable power banks to charge USB devices. Useful during long game drives.
- Small LED flashlight (It does get dark at night and good to have one of these handy)
- A reusable water bottle or thermos
- Standard toiletries for adults and kids
- Binoculars, most guides will have them but good to have your own. We loved our Nikon Binoculars
- Small packable day bag
- Cash for tips
- Medical/Travel Insurance cards
- Passport

We packed everything into packing cubes and then into a medium duffle bag each.
